What could be done to help you or others feel a greater sense of belonging in the CAP community?

A lot of inclusivity

Activities

Adding more events that are available throughout the week. To accommodate everyone's schedules

Being a relatively long distance commuter, sometimes in-person requirements for classes are unfeasible for me. Also, paying for parking day after day is one of the biggest financial barriers for me during the semester. Mandating zoom components (where applicable) and some sort of affordable parking arrangement that isnt on the other end of the Auraria campus would be fantastic. (I am diabetic so the walk from Cherry to the CAP building risks causing hypoglycemia.)

Being able to displays our projecta from every class so every one can see what ever group is doing

CAPsule is helpful but not advanced warning for job schedules and cap event often conflict with regularly schedule classes.

Continue to have a welcoming community and include everyone everywhere

Continue to have broad lectures.

Create more activities

Easier access to resources earlier in the semester, longer accessibility later in the semester

Ensuring every platform has events posted

Events for specific studios.

Everything abour CAP is reallt inclusive already, but if I were to say something to make it even greater, I wojld suggest having events within the studios themselves. It's sometimes difficult for students to make it to events, so having them within the studios themselves could be helpful.

I can't think of anything specific

I don't have any recommendations because what you guys are doing is amazing.

I feel like i belong

I feel lost in all my todos and tuition, I don't know fafsa works but apparently it doesn't mean your good to go for the semester and I'm lost on what's all o need Todo.

I feel very included.

I have struggled with being an older adult attending classes

I think a lot of events are either not very attended or unknown

I think cap has done a great job at displaying student work but I think even more is better. When you see your work up on the walls it helps give a sense of accomplishment and connection to this place. That your work is being seen and respected.

I think the tone and professionalism of the people who are brought in to critique our work needs to be addressed. I have witnessed and experienced several unprofessional and unnecessary comments. I understand the history/culture of architecture crits has allowed for this type of behavior in the past. That being said, if we are going to bill ourselves as being on the forefront of change in the industry, then we need to do a better job in this area.

I think they're doing everything they can.

I would like to see more Hispanic representation especially in the architecture industry

I'm not sure, maybe just more mixer events!

Idk

If CU Denver used student fees to allow all students to have a RTD pass.

Implement a buddy system for international or out of state students could be a great way to help overcome some of the lonely weekends.

Instead of events, CAP could have a specific space that allows students to mingle. The cafe and libraries are more for quiet time rather than conversation.

Inter and multi disciplinary collaboration

I'm not sure

I'm not sure, I feel like I belong

I'm not sure, possibly more events that encourage togetherness.

Just more announcements on what's going on, it feels like there's not much of that.

Keep doing thse events

Keep doing what you're doing! CAP IS AMAZING!

Maybe have events where during the afternoon after class because most of us are working on studio during lunch

Maybe more diverse educators and projects from smaller and more culturally interesting places

More NOMA programs

More accommodating to schedule

More awareness of events. But things are pretty great already!

More clubs that are open to all

More communication

More community and engaging events

More community building events for students

More connection between faculty and students. There's a massive divide unless you're one of like 3 students.

More events for different groups

More events for opportunity within the working world

More events for undergrads!

More events that bring the students together.

More events thy invite community and families

More events to connect students of different levels

More group activities

More information on activities happening outside and how to be apart of them

More planning inclusive programming rather than ARCH only focus

My studio is amazing

Not entirely sure, compared to other professional, campus settings I've been in, it feels like the school does a lot to foster a culture of inclusion

Not really sure, I just don't attend many events ._.

Nothing it's great so far

Nothing to say at the moment

Nothing!

Opening up more

Perhaps more announcements could be made through email.

Personally I think it's great and there's nothing.

Some classes or class trips are difficult because of transport limitations and financial issues. The one thing I have had a difficult time with was getting to classes off campus or class functions. I don't know if there is a way to option field trips or alternate things to do instead if I can't go, but it's been the only real difficulty in my time here.

Urban Planning majors are an afterthought because we don't bring in alum funds like architecture. It's very apparent and pretty terrible.

more times for events other than studio days
